

THE 1ST CRYPTO FIAT/BANK

We, the people who own the coins, will make future decisions about how the bank works and operates. We are now working on the construction of the platform, based on the same system that a bank uses now, but the bank's profits are for the holders of the currencies, we have an underlying crypto exchange to exchange all the main cryptocurrencies at any time and once That your currency is in the bank can buy gold shares, or gold coin (our bank uses currencies) or most of the major fiduciary currencies around the world.

OUR MISSION

Our mission is to help everyone in the world to convert and use their crypto currency to buy everything they want anywhere in the world. There is almost $ 400 billion in Crypto at this time, at the end of the year it will be approximately 1 trillion.

Be part of the new era of investors.

WHY INVEST IN GOLD?

Money eventually loses its value, and even collapses, while gold and silver (among other metals) are revalued. It can be converted back into money anywhere in the world in any currency. It has immediate liquidity and we are always going to have a buyer, it does not depend on the markets.

CRYPTO

The Cryptocurrency is a new concept of money or means of exchange, you can also refer to it as virtual currency, digital currency, electronic money or online money.

The best known is Bitcoin, the electronic currency was born in 2009 by Satoshi Nakamoto.

HISTORY

At the arrival of 2008, the world economy were in serious trouble and the central banks injected more money and because of this, the first virtual currency is created: Bitcoin, without being backed by any government or dependent on the trust of any central issuer, it uses a novelty system to prevent double spending and achieve approval among all the participants that make up the network.

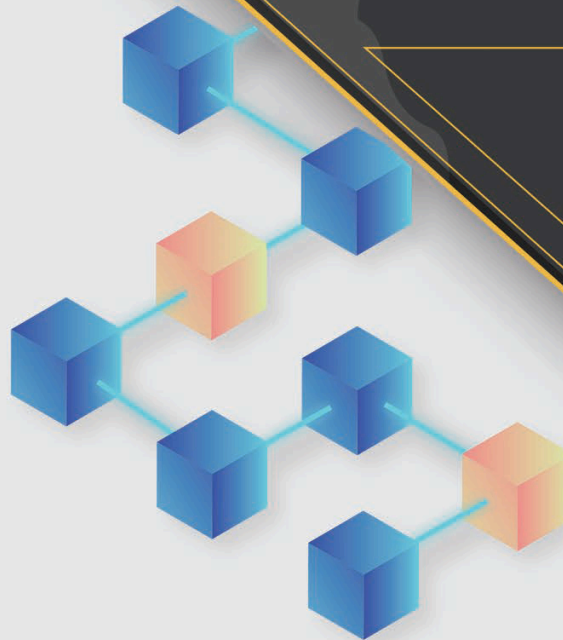

The currency of the future was born and that future has become present. In February 2011, Bitcoin managed to keep pace with the dollar and in October 2012 it consolidated as a virtual exchange currency. By March 2013, the total value of all Bitcoins in the market amounts to $ 1 trillion. On April 9, the price of Bitcoin rises to two hundred dollars.

Many coins have been used throughout history, backed by different patterns among the most popular are gold, silver, wheat, tobacco, salt, cocoa and many others.

¿WHAT IS BLOCKCHAIN?

The blockchain is a shared digital book that records all the transactions of a cryptocurrency determined between two parties. These transactions form groupings known as "blocks", which in turn are coded and linked to each other. The information registered in the chain of blocks is stored in millions of computers and is open to everyone, instead of being stored in one place.

This makes the process transparent and immutable to modifications, without weak points vulnerable to human or computer error. Once the data is verified, it can no longer be edited without the consensus of the majority of the community. This means that intermediaries like banks should no longer exist! Banks act as intermediaries of all transactions, effectively centralizing the movement of capital from one side to the other. We are in the future where you do not have to pay any penny to transfer your money where you want.

CRYPTOCURRENCIES BENEFITS

The payments made in cryptocurrency are formalized instantly. In addition, there are no intermediaries. Transactions are made from one person to another.

The crypto currencies are decentralized so that no country or institution can manage to control them.

The cryptographic systems of virtual currencies are extremely safe, to such an extent that, for now, no cryptocurrency has had any security failure.

The taxes included in each transaction made in virtual currencies are minimal. In addition, the fees to send money abroad are also minimal.

The cryptocurrencies began to be used by many people in the world, because each cryptocurrency has a particularity that differentiates it from the rest, it can be the system of its technology, or the value of its quotation.

Their constant evolution is due to the fact that they were eventually included in society and in the economic system, cryptocurrencies caused such a great technological advance, that they began to be one of the main requirements of decentralized projects, as well as they were added in some systems banking.

The cryptocurrencies are completely universal, they can be used between different individuals, covering international territories.
